

Hamilton Street Gallery has invited Christy E. O'Connor to be the guest curator for this exhibition, which describes a prevalent topic that has effected all of us. We are honored and thrilled to work with her.

From religious fanaticism, to celebrity and hero worship, to personal relationships, what will some do to prove their faith and belief system to an individual or a cause? What drives one's devotion to the point of violence? Is it love? A need for power? Fear? Anger? Hatred? Manipulation? Violent Devotion seeks to uncover what drives one to extreme acts to prove their love or devotion to a person or a cause? Who has influenced acts of extremism? What institutions have nourished and cultivated these excessive belief systems, and why? How many acts of violence have been committed in the name of love or hate?

Eligibility

1. Exhibition is open to residents 18 years or older, living in NY, NJ and PA.
2. All media will be considered and must be original and by the artist.
3. We prefer that work be hand delivered to the gallery, but will accept pre-paid shipment of work preferably through the Post Office with return packaging to and from the gallery.
4. Art work must be wired and ready for hanging and/or installation and must not exceed 60" in any direction. Please no saw tooth hangers. Size limitations for sculptural and video pieces will be considered individually.

Christy E. O'Connor

Bio

Christy E. O'Connor is an independent contemporary art curator, from Monmouth County, NJ. Her curatorial practice largely focuses on sociopolitical factors and cultural issues that have been pervasive throughout history. Her background in education has driven her curation, as she continues to seek ways to engage with the community that will insight curiosity and lead to dialogs, that might not otherwise occur.

O'Connor previously served as Exhibitions Curator at BSB Gallery in Trenton, NJ. She has curated exhibitions in various galleries and unconventional art spaces throughout the state of New Jersey, featuring artists at varying stages of their careers with exceedingly diverse artistic backgrounds and practices. In 2017, she founded Art Hustle. Art Hustle's mission it to develop engaging art exhibitions throughout the state of New Jersey and to provide opportunities for artists to work with various art spaces, they might not otherwise exhibit with.

O'Connor holds a B.A. in Visual Arts from Ramapo College of New Jersey and an M.S.E.D in Special Education from Monmouth University. O'Connor has collaborated with local arts organizations in varying capacities, including Artworks Trenton, Atlantic Highlands Arts Council, Chashama Matawan, and Monmouth Museum.

As a curator, O'Connor endeavors to highlight artwork that pushes boundaries through craft, process, and contextuality. Her background in education and personal investment in artistic activism, drives her passion to provide a platform for the many voices and perspectives that have often been overlooked, ignored, or shut out from so many of our institutions over the years.
